

Mrs. O'Brien is elected Judge of Magistrate's Court No. 24. Mr. McGinnis is brought before her, charged with having kissed his wife. Twenty years in state's prison by hard labor and fasting. While his wife holds court Mr. O'Brien attends to his household duties.

Mrs. O'Brien returns from court. Dinner is not ready, the baby is not washed, the rooms are not clean. She makes him sweep the floor and cook the meal. Not satisfied with his work Mrs. O'Brien takes the dough and throws it in her husband's face. Mr. O'Brien would like to get a divorce but such cannot be obtained when women vote.

COPYRIGHT 1907 BY S. LUBIN.

COPYRIGHT 1907

Gypsy's

Revenge

S. LUBIN, . . . Largest Manufacturer of . . .
Films, Slides, Stereopticon and
Life Motion Picture Machines

19-21 SOUTH EIGHTH STREET
PHILADELPHIA, PA., U. S. A.

1. 7-02

GYPSY'S REVENGE

COPYRIGHT 1907

Length, 900 Feet

Price, $99.00

THE MEETING PLACE OF THE HUNSMEN. Four of them leave on horseback to go Fox hunting. Having arrived at their destination they part. One of the Huntsmen meets the Gypsy Queen, a beautiful girl. He asks her for a drink of water and in return gives her a bouquet of flowers.

GYPSY'S CAMPING GROUNDS. Among the fantastically draped wagons we see the Gypsies; men and women. The young Gypsy Queen, while picking flowers, reaches the Huntsman's camp, where she meets the young hunter. He presents her with his photograph, which she lovingly conceals.

THE GYPSY SUITOR REJECTED. One of the Gypsies, who is in love with the Gypsy Queen, asks her to marry him, which she refuses to do. He threatens revenge and leaves the tent.

The rejected lover steals into the Huntsman's camp, taking away three of the four horses. The theft is detected, however, and the Gypsy thief is followed by the four huntsmen. In a lonely place the Gypsy thief shoots at the huntsman, wounding him. He is found by the Gypsy Queen, who calls for help and has her lover brought into her own camp.

THE FORTUNE TELLER IN HER TENT. Men and women come to have their fortunes told.

In the Gypsy Queen's tent, on a plain cot, lies her wounded lover. The rejected Gypsy suitor steals into the tent and is just going to stab the wounded huntsman when the Gypsy Queen returns and bids him to leave. Her lover then asks her parents for the Gypsy Queen's hand which is gladly given.

THE BETROTHAL
While the betrothal is being celebrated, the rejected lover, furious over his rival's success, steals into the camp and kills the huntsman. At once the entire camp is in an uproar determined to catch the fleeing scoundrel.

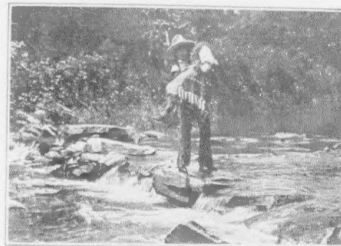

The murderer tries to evade his pursuers. He crawls through bushes, rides over mountains, but all of no avail; he is captured at last, bound to a horse and dragged into camp by the Gypsy Queen.

The murderer is surrounded by the Gypsies. The Gypsy Queen takes a revolver, and shoots the murderer right through the heart, killing him the same way as he killed her lover. The Gypsy falls over the dead Huntsman and thus the Huntsman's death is avenged.

COPYRIGHT 1907

AN INDIAN'S

FRIENDSHIP

S. LUBIN

LARGEST MANUFACTURER OF

LIFE MOTION PICTURE MACHINES.
FILMS, SLIDES AND STEREOPTICONS

19-21 S. EIGHTH ST., PHILADELPHIA, PA., U. S. A.